

VETAFARM PELLETS VS GRAIN AND CHAFF MIX

WHY PELLETS ARE BETTER FOR YOUR SMALL ANIMAL

An extruded pellet diet provides many benefits to the health and happiness of your small animals, meaning a better quality of life and less visits to the vet. Vetafarm pellets are a superior source of nutrition as they are veterinary formulated to supply a complete and balanced diet –and they are Australian made!

VETAFARM PELLETS

Fully formulated using the latest data so they are nutritionally complete with an ideal balance of fibre, protein, fats, vitamins and minerals.

Fully extruded product reduces waste and mess. Being 100% edible you get the full value of the feed.

A balanced diet is critical if your pet is to grow and stay healthy. Pellets ensure your pet gets a balanced diet with every mouthful.

Extruded pellets improve gut function by consistently providing a high fibre diet – no grain overload.

Vetafarm Pellets give pet owners cost effective peace of mind with diets formulated by veterinarians and manufactured under strict Quality Assurance systems.

OTHER BRANDS MIX

Grain and chaff mixes generally use whatever is available and cheap! Formulation of the mix varies widely. Never a balanced diet.

Grain and chaff mixes often contain "fillers" which are foods that your pet will not eat – leaving behind a waste that you need to clean up.

Grain and chaff mixes allow your pet to select only some parts of the feed - leading to nutritional imbalances.

Grain overload of the gut can happen easily when your pet selects grain before fibre.

Grain and chaff mixes require supplementation with vitamins and minerals, and also allow gut upsets.

If you have any questions about our extruded pellets, or want some more information on the ratio to provide for your pet, you can contact us or visit our website today.

www.vetafarm.com.au